"If the use of language to express thought is an art, Mr. Debs is an artist. If oratory is a science, he is a master of the science. If eloquence reaches and takes hold of the hearts and emotions of mankind, Mr. Debs has that which will make his auditors stand and deliver the goods."

DETROIT TIMES, January 12, 1906.
'GENE DEBS

The same old pard of the long ago,
The whole-souled 'Gene that I used to know;
With the love of Truth writ on Justice' scroll,
With a woman's heart and a warrior's soul.

CAPTAIN JACK CRAWFORD,
The Poet-Scout.
EUGENE V. DEBS

has just completed a lecture tour in Michigan of unprecedented success. Crowded houses and delighted audiences greeted him at every point.

Read what some of the papers have to say, in the following pages, regarding Mr. Debs and his message to the people.
Dear Friend Debs:

The strength of your faith, the liveliness of your hopes, the persistency of your valor, the breadth of your thought and the energy of your genius fill me with admiration.

Faithfully yours,

JOHN SWINTON.

There is but one man in the United States that can draw such an audience in Detroit, to listen to the discussion of the labor question, and that man is Eugene V. Debs.

His address lasted over two hours and at its close, not only men, but women, surged to the platform to grasp his hand and congratulate him.

—Detroit Times.
Eugene V. Debs delivered his address upon "Social Problems" at the Bell Theatre, Sunday afternoon, before a large audience.

To use the words of one enthusiastic hearer, "It was without doubt one of the largest and one of the brainiest audiences that has assembled in Benton Harbor this winter."

—Benton Harbor News-Palladium.
The Universalist Church was crowded to hear Eugene V. Debs. The audience was made up of citizens in general without regard to party affiliations. The address was nearly two hours long, but was sufficiently interesting to keep the very closest attention of the whole audience.

—Dowagiac Republican.
“Carnegie Hall never held a larger or more enthusiastic audience than that which last night greeted Eugene V. Debs.”

—New York World.
The audience of Eugene V. Debs filled every nook and corner of the hall. He was possessed of his usual eloquence and his sallies were greeted with hearty cheers.

—Detroit Free Press.
"An audience that packed the building gathered at the Universalist Church, Monday evening, to hear Eugene V. Debs.

"His choice of language was beautiful and faultless, his passages at times sublime. Words slipped from his tongue into sentences of perfect English. It can be truly called a masterpiece of its kind."

—Dowagiac Daily News.
TO DEBS.

Above thee floats a flag unfurled,

As white as drifted snow its face;

'Tis hope for all the waiting world,

'Tis life for all the dying race.

REV. H. S. G. LAKE.
Faneuil Hall was crowded to the doors to listen to Eugene V. Debs, and for more than two hours the large audience was charmed by the grace and beauty of his diction, and swayed by the eloquence and power of his oratory.
